

Reach for new partners inside and outside Europe using the Enterprise Europe Network' partnership opportunity database

What is the database?

Enterprise Europe Network manages the largest European database of partnership opportunities.

The database has thousands of business, technology and research cooperation requests and offers from companies and R&D institutions spread over + 60 countries.

How can you benefit from the database?

Being a part of this database opens the opportunities for your company to find new partners from inside and outside Europe. The partnerships you make can be in areas of commercial, technological or research – anything you need!

Using the database, you can:

1. Share your company profile and partnership proposal:
 - Describe what partnership you are seeking.
 - Describe what you can offer other companies.
2. Search the profiles of foreign companies, research organisations, innovators that match your target.

How can Enterprise Europe Brussels help you?

Our advisors will help you build your company profile. The profile is highly important as it is your way of introducing yourself to your potential partners. Enterprise Europe Brussels advisors will also assist you in creating the profile of your ideal partner (the collaboration sought) – making the filtering process more effective for you.

Business Support on Your Doorstep

How does it reach you?

Enterprise Europe Brussels will inform you whenever a foreign company expresses an interest in your profile and let you decide whether to initiate cooperation with those companies or not.

You can also customize e-alerts for cooperation opportunities that come up from the database. For this, it is imperative that you create targeted and appropriate keywords for the industry/niche/area that you are seeking to find partners in. You also have to select the cooperation type that you are looking for: commercial, technological or R&D partnerships. The database will regularly send e-alerts directly to your mailbox, with proposals for cooperation from companies in Europe and beyond.
